

Volunteer Jobs - Something for Everyone!

Friends of Feral Felines (FoFF) is an all-volunteer organization committed to helping feral cats in southern Maine.

Our mission is to humanely reduce the number of feral cats in our communities through trapping, neutering, and then releasing them back to their colony sites (a method called Trap-Neuter-Return or TNR). In time, the colonies' populations shrink due to lack of reproduction.

Hands-On Cat Care: If you like to work directly with cats in the field, you might enjoy feeding or managing a feral colony, or even trapping or transporting cats for medical care.

Fundraising and Educating: If you like raising money, passion, and public awareness, you might like to attend our table at pet stores and craft fairs or write for our newsletter or website.

Organizational Leadership: If you like planning, organizing, and coordinating, you might like to lead a project or program, or even join our board of directors.

How You Can Help

The process of Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR) requires ongoing commitment from volunteers who feed, monitor, and manage colonies; transport cats to and from the veterinarian; foster cats during their recovery or before their adoption; and raise funds to support the need for food, litter, supplies, and veterinary services.

We'll train you in your chosen volunteer job(s), assign you an ongoing mentor, and put you to work with a wonderful team for a great cause!

If you'd like to support FoFF's efforts through volunteering, please call 207-797-3014, or send an email to office@feralfelines.net.
